Judges

James Sanford

James Sanford is the Creative Manager at Alamo Drafthouse Kalamazoo, in charge of specialty film booking, promotions and marketing. Previously, he was a film critic and entertainment reporter at The Kalamazoo Gazette and The Battle Creek Enquirer and the arts and culture editor at City Pulse in Lansing. He taught journalism at his alma mater of Western Michigan University, winning the David C.Czuk Part-Time Faculty Award for Teaching Excellence. He contributes reviews to WMUK's Arts & More program. He lives in Portage.

Jim Middleton

Animator, educator, and pharmacist Jim Middleton has created and coordinated arts and film production courses for KCC and KVCC and is director of pharmacy for Western Michigan University. His drug monographs are a regular feature in professional publications, his textbook on pharmacology is self-illustrated and in its 4th edition, and his film work has earned him international recognition. Middleton's portrayal of the notorious Frank J. Kellogg ("the other Kellogg") is a regular feature of the Battle Creek Historical Society.

Jon Hoadley

Kalamazoo's freshman state representative and CEO of Badlands Strategies located in Kalamazoo.
